Foreword

May the stars shine upon this book so clearly that the memory of high school will be a light to guide us to noble things. Whether the Prophet of life predict fortune or misfortune for us, let us be strengthened with the thought of our high school teachers and classmates.

In this book we have tried to color the past so that in the future the colors will still be bright. If we have succeeded, our purpose is accomplished.

Dedication

When our skies are black, their skies are black; when our days are bright, their's are bright; when we are disheartened and afraid they come to us, put joy into our hearts, and give us strength to fight the battle through. In appreciation of all this, we dedicate our annual, The Echo, to them—our beloved parents.

CORDIE ALBRIGHT. December 7.

Your creative power and native genius should enable you to rise above the common run of mankind and do something great.

BILLY ARCHER. March 20.

You are even-tempered, reliable, honest, unselfish, intelligent, and have a deep sense of right and wrong.

ANNIE LAURIE ATWELL. Sept. 18.

Born under the sign of Virgo, you have a lovable personality. You are optimistic, and possess a wonderful sense of humor.

OREN BAITY. September 25.

In addition to being a fine athlete, you are an all-round good sport. Since you never quarrel, you should have few enemies.

ANNIE MAE BAKER. May 20.

You are a very versatile person—not only an all-round athlete, but also a good student and a true friend.

M. C. BARNHARDT. October 14.

Consistency and activeness are admirable qualities of yours. You are also hard-working, reliable, honest, and likeable.

CATHERINE BARRINGER. June 1.

You were born under the sign of Gemini, which is the intellectual sign. You understand human nature and you are lovable and co-operative.

PAUL BELL. August 6.

Talent along musical lines shall always be a source of pleasure and restfulness as well as of profit to you.

ELLESE BOST. March 28.

Your winning smiles and cheerful personality will always reserve harmony and concord with whomever you are associated.

OPHELIA BOST. June 28.

The great World War began on your birthday. This is a sign of a life just opposite: calm, serene, successful, and beautiful.

MILDRED BRIDGES. September 21

Your agreeable nature and your love for home fits you for domestic life.

HAROLD BRITTAIN January 1.

Your birthday comes at the time when everyone is starting anew. The stars foretell wonderful things for a person born on the first day of the year.

CLEMENT BROWN. August 9.

Sturdiness and staunchness of character are qualities which belong to you.

IVEY BROWN. March 21.

Your excellent agility of body is your best asset for an equally agile mind. Analyze your actions carefully and be consistent in your undertakings.

KENNETH BROWN. September 22.

You were born under the sign of Libra. You are very self-reliant, fair in your judgments, and generous in all ways.

JACK BUSBY. February 12.

Born under the sign as Abraham Lincoln. Your kind heart, your honesty, and your intelligence will make you shine.

AZILEE CAUBLE. April 4.

You are generous and open-minded, and have sympathy for everyone. You have a good memory and a keen sense of humor.

ROBERT CLAWSON. August 9.

You are governed by Leo; therefore you are popular and affectionate, understand people very well, and are quite idealistic.

MFNA COOK.

January 2.

Your love of order, beauty, culture, and things quaintly simple make your delightful, refreshing character.

THERESA COOKE.

October 18.

Harmony and beauty are necessary essentials in your life. You are capricious in your moods and like things "different". You never cease to be entertaining to your friends.

CHARLES CURD.

April 12.

On your twelfth birthday, the father of waters, the Mississippi broke its restraining dykes and made history—So will you overcome things that tend to hold you back.

JIMMY CUTHRELL.

February 8.

A crystal-gazer would probably truthfully prophesy huge stages and footlights for you. But whether you are a famous dancer or not, always be "Jimmy."

HENRY DAVIS.

January 4.

Boys born under Capricorn are usually ladies' men. But that doesn't keep them from being good students and all-round good fellows.

GLADYS DRYE.

August 21.

You are patient, kind-hearted, ambitious, and industrious. Always strive toward your ideals in life and stand back of your convictions.

EDNA EAGLE.

June 19.

Your keen mind and your strong power of concentration make you an unusual scholar.

GLADYS ENNIS.

September 29.

It takes incentive to accomplish anything in the world, and your scholastic records show that you are endowed with a generous amount.

RUSSELL FELTS.

October 15.

You seem doomed in some manner to be a professional with a luxurious office and your name on the door in gilt lettering.

EARL FISHER. March 24.

You are endowed with a strong will and a superior mind. You are a natural organizer and a good leader.

RUBEN FISHER. August 9.

Your frank good-natured grin will help create an atmosphere of geniality among all your associates.

JOHN FOX. June 7.

Those to come will remember you as a genius—a mathematician, doctor, musician, artist, and statesman.

PHYLLIS GANTT. December 13.

You have an attractive personality and adaptability for almost any type of surroundings that you may be in.

ARLENE GARRETT. January 21.

Your inherent ability, through the sub-luna influences of Janus, is that of an active, operative builder of the temple, beneficent in all ways.

JACK GARRISON. January 13.

Your natural ease in pantomime and excellent manners should be an open door for you to climb to the top. You shall have a varied future.

FRED GOBBLE. May 28.

Your abilities and virtues are many, but your favorite game is "hooky".

INEZ GOODMAN. January 22.

As an Aquarian, through birth sign placement and influence, you are loyal; therefore you will make and keep friends throughout life.

CRESS GOODNIGHT. April 12.

The ancient Magi claimed that all persons born under Aries would prove exceptionally successful in whatever they should attempt. This sign also gives you an attraction for fair damsels.

RUBY HALL. October 29.

Your ability, dependability, and ambition make you a good student, a hard worker, and a friend to all.

OLENE HEILIG. January 28.

You possess mental and physical poise, and you are an all-round good comrade. Vocationally you will excel as a teacher of athletics.

JACK HICE. June 16.

Born under the same zodiacal sign as Irvin S. Cobb, you have much literary ability and will succeed as a humorist and satirist.

DAVID HOFFMAN. March 4.

You are ambitious, friendly, even tempered, and honest. Cultivate self-confidence and a greater appreciation of your worth.

CATHERINE HOLBROOKS. February 14.

The sign of the Zodiac under which you were born shows that you are individualistic, neat, and discriminating.

LALA HOLSHOUSER. October 5.

Characteristically, you love beauty and display, have good business and organizing ability and respond to domestic and civic interests.

WILMA HOPKINS. February 12.

Your abilities are many, however your determination to succeed will be a factor in your ultimate success.

PITTS HUDSON. October 26.

You will be long remembered for your wonderful gift of "gab". Your talents will enable you to become an excellent lawyer or politician.

KATHERINE ISENHOUR. March 9.

Refinement and gentleness appeal to you. You are destined to make an excellent partner for some lucky man.

ZOLA JOHNSON. December 19.

The desire for a happy home life is paramount in your life. You will probably marry soon.

MARY EVELYN JONES. July 1.

Your chief marks of personality are sincerity, determination, sweet disposition, and talent for making friends.

BEVERLY KEEVER. March 10.

You should make a success of a military career, but beware of the girl who can't resist a uniform.

FRANCES KIMBALL. August 20.

Foresight and intuition are yours. You lead, but never follow. You are hospitable, warm hearted, and benevolent.

DOROTHY KIRK. June 7.

Yours is a personality which will draw to you many influential and important friends who will help you to success.

RAYMOND KIRK. October 1.

Excitement and comrades appeal to your easy-going, friendly, and unselfish make-up. Try to have a warmer regard for skirts.

ERNEST KLUTTZ. June 23.

The stars foretell a wonderful future for you. With your persistence you should realize your ambitions.

KATHLEEN KOON. November 1.

The originality, dependability, good judgment, and foresight which are yours will enable you to become a most successful journalist.

EVELYN LEE. July 8.

You are intelligent and tactful; your poise enables you to manage any kind of situation with considerable "savoir faire."

GRADY LENTZ. January 10.

Your excellent memory is a valuable asset to your other numerous fine qualities. You will always have many sincere friends.

CHARLES LEONARD. July 11.

July 11 is the 'Day of Peace.' The constellations show that a person born on this day will help to promote world peace.

MARIE LEONARD. September 5.

You are firm in your opinions, strong in your friendships, honest, just, and benevolent.

CARL LOFLIN. June 15.

You are strong, honest, loyal, truthful and a good sport. Surely these qualities will help develop a true athlete and a good man.

ENID LYERLY. August 25.

You have ability in many lines, but you should concentrate on one thing. Your artistic temperament will enable you to become an expert interior decorator.

NATHAN LYERLY. August 24.

Your natural musical ability indicates a sensitive and friendly nature. Develop this talent of yours.

MURIEL MAHALEY. January 6.

Your mission in life is to exercise your kind and sympathetic nature and bring harmony into the lives of others.

UNDINE MAHALEY. February 9.

You are a very ambitious, hard-working person. Your simple, sweet personality will make many friends for you.

WILHELMINA MANNING. October 26.

Although you have wit, intelligence, and many other good qualities, your ability to make and hold friends is your greatest asset.

VERNON MASK.

March 19.

Not only are you gifted along mechanical lines, but you also have a love for pets. This indicates a kind and likeable nature.

CARL MASSEY.

August 16.

You are intelligent and ambitious. With these, coupled with honest endeavor and conscientious effort, you should reap many rewards.

NEELY McCUBBINS.

August 9.

Your all-round good sportsmanship, your ability, and your captivating personality will make you a success in social as well as professional life.

FRANCIS McDANIEL.

February 15.

Not only are you musically inclined, but you also have a streak of faithfulness that cannot be equalled.

MARY McENERY.

October 15.

You have a great ability for making friends; your affections are strong, and you love with a remarkable degree of constancy.

CONSTANCE McKAY.

July 29.

Born under the influence of Leo, you have an inventive mind, a charming personality, and you are very quick to learn.

CORRIE McMILLIAN.

July 14.

You are a popular person and will always have hosts of friends about you.

ELIZABETH McKINNEY.

March 10.

In personality, you radiate enthusiasm. In talent, you excel in dancing.

LAWERENCE McKINNEY.

August 8.

Your life is influenced by Leo. Leo gives you ambition, courage, and determination. Certainly with these qualities nothing but success can be before you.

CLEMENTS MCPHERSON. March 12.

A hard worker, one who deserves, one who will win, and by the way, one who will probably get his "Nellie Gray"!

PAULINE MESIMORE. February 22.

You, who are born under the same sign as the father of our country, are blessed with kindness, generosity, and ability.

JACK MILLER. March 5.

A son of Pisces is always ready to work, ready to play, ready to give, ready to take.

GENOA MILLS. April 15.

Your talents are many, although your greatest is the ability to speak in public. You will be a success in business or society.

EVELYN MISENHEIMER. December 17.

Although you are benefited by a care-free nature, you should think seriously of your artistic talent and profit by it.

JAMES MONROE. May 4.

The world always has a place for a good executive and for a good "heart breaker" too, maybe.

RUBY MORGAN. July 16.

You are conservative, but have great aptitude and endurance. Your fondness for home will enable you to become a good housekeeper.

JOSEPHINE MURDOCH. December 25.

Versatility is your most marked trait. Your superb intelligence, your dependability and your ability to make and keep friends are responsible for your popularity.

EDITH NEEL. December 23.

You are popular and attractive to both boys and girls. Your pleasing personality demands a host of admirers.

SAM PEACOCK.

October 25.

You have great energy and determination, self-control and self-confidence. These are the characteristics of a business man.

ALICE PINKSTON.

November 6.

Endowed with much ability, great patience, and a nice sense of humor, you would make an ideal school teacher.

DOROTHY PLYLER.

April 3.

You are a daughter of Aries, ambitious, hard-working, and original. Your friends find you interesting.

MARGARET POOLE.

December 18.

Intelligence! Understanding! Dependability! Originality! A task is never too great for you.

MARION PURCELL.

September 27.

You are very intellectual, and you don't mind digging hard for understanding. People love you for your quiet, even disposition.

GLADYS RAINEY.

June 18.

Your pleasing personality and dainty "petite" ways should enable you to be surrounded always by numerous friends and admirers.

HELEN RAMSEY.

September 9.

The domestic and home-loving side of your nature is strong. Your imagination is well developed and makes you interesting to all.

GARNELLE RANEY.

June 9.

Intelligence, initiative, attractiveness, wit, style, popularity, originality, and honesty characterize you, a true daughter of Gemini.

KATHLEEN ROBERTS.

January 13.

You are hard-working, self-reliant, intelligent and popular. You are fond of sports and would make an ideal gym teacher.

DOROTHY RUFTY. March 12.

You require peace, balance and tranquility. You possess charm, tact, a great personal dignity, a sympathetic manner, and much real kindness of heart.

OLIVER RUFTY. August 27.

Virgo, the sign under which you were born, gives you strength in many ways, but your one great weakness is "red heads".

CHARLES SAFRIT. August 14.

Among the ancients, your birthday was known as "The Day of Gladness." This sign points toward wealth, love, and fame.

ALMA SHIVES. May 21.

With your Geminian vitality, you should have the strength to come through trial to victory.

JOE SINGLETON. May 27.

Gemini's children always have a tiny streak of bashfulness in them. But, you know, it seems the girls always fall for that kind.

MARTHA SKINNER. December 12.

Dignified, conservative, soft, yet with a love of excitement. You shall always be a favorite with your friends.

DOROTHY SMITH. January 4.

Your poetical gift gives you the power to show your character and worth as Shakespeare and Milton.

MARY STEWELL. March 21.

You are destined to make some "Prince Charming" happy with your kind, sympathetic nature.

MARY STIREWALT. July 21.

Your magnetic personality, your wonderful sense of humor and your ability to handle every situation with skill, make you a true "ideal".

BEATRICE SWAN.

December 8.

Your governing sign is Sagittarius. You are especially fond of animals, and are kind to everybody.

JOHN SWINDELL.

July 24.

Mental stability, unselfishness, honesty, and ambition are all yours. Your curious nature will enable you to develop your profession fully.

ADRIAN TREXLER.

June 24.

Your blunt and frank manner should always keep for you a host of admiring friends. A deep full voice seems to indicate a radio baritone, or perhaps an announcer.

VIRGIL TREXLER.

January 18.

You are quiet, practical, sensitive, good-natured and have many friends. Your lucky day is Friday.

ELIZABETH TROLLINGER. January 5.

Your mission in life is to make others happy. Your ability to act and your everlasting "babbel" will be most helpful.

HENRY TYSINGER.

October 14.

You are a true friend, kind and honest. You are always ready to render your services to a person in need.

CARL WALTON.

June 20.

A son of the modern age. Your musical ability will probably find itself in a jazz orchestra.

LUCY WALTON.

April 9.

Harmony and beauty are as necessary to you as the air you breathe, for you are essentially aesthetic.

KENNETH WAGONER. December 14.

A son of Sagittarius is always ready to serve. This quality will carry you far.

RALPH WAGONER. March 11.

From all indications, your future will be similar to that of many large business men and kings of finance. Your systematic, practical, and orderly nature makes you an excellent manager.

TOM WARNER. January 1.

Those born under Capricorn are especially gifted. Work hard and your voice may thrill great audiences at the Metropolitan.

MARY WATSON. October 6.

You love your home and domestic things generally. Your emotional nature is strong, and your character is made of the very finest qualities.

HAZEL WHIRLOW. October 15.

You are shown to have a keen sense of right and wrong, and you will fight to the end for the right.

BERNARD WILLIAMS. February 17.

A person possessing relentless ambition, superior intelligence, and a radiant personality knows no stopping this side of success!

ROBERT WILSON. October 21.

Self-control is a thing to be desired, and you are richly endowed with this. Always continue being deliberate before undertaking things.

ALICE WINECOFF. November 23.

According to your sign, Sagittarius, you will always be active and busy. You should marry a person born in August, February, or October.

LEON WINECOFF.

June 2.

There is a great demand for go-getters everywhere. Your industrious, punctual, and thrifty habits indicate a shrewd business career.

BOB WOODSON.

August 23.

Studios, steady, dependable, and intelligent! a nice quartet of characteristics.

LULA WYATT.

January 19.

Beauty, intelligence, wit, and cleanliness appeal to you. Continue to admire these virtues. Always be systematic and steady in your life's mission.

JAUNITA YARBOROUGH. November 1.

Your chief marks of personality are sincerity, determination, intelligence and the ability to always be your own sweet self.

WILDA MAE YINGLING. April 22.

Your likes and dislikes are strong. Things artistic appeal to you and you have a great love for music.

HENRIETTA YOUNG. October 26.

Your horoscope shows a fine balance of disposition. You do not need companionship because you are fitted to carry on your work alone.

JOHN ZIMMERMAN. September 8.

Virgo, your influencing sign, makes you intelligent and steady. You will make a success in business if you will apply yourself.

SENIOR CLASS HISTORY

*I was sitting on a little planet far above the earth,
And was very happy, my heart was full of mirth;
For I was reviewing the story of the class of '32
As it climbed the trail of learning. Listen, I'll tell it now to you.*

*They entered the portals of Boyden High
With many a pont and many a sigh,
For they were ridiculed beyond compare
By those who already had been there;
They paid little heed to this terrible jesting,
And worked earnestly, hardly resting.*

*James Monroe their leader they elected,
And second semester Jim Cutbrell selected.
And they manfully followed the chosen two
Until their first year they had passed through.*

*In working for Field Day they had much fun,
And won the tournaments, surprising everyone.
They entered the Senior Carnival, gladly doing their share,
And won the cup with "King Boyden's Court", more than pleasing everyone there.*

*So their first year ended, and they who had worked
Were given crowns of honor, for they hadn't shirked.
And oh, 'tis sad, but nevertheless quite true,
That those who didn't work, didn't get through.*

*Balmy weather heralded vacation,
(Blest be the one responsible for this creation)
And they all parted for a short time
To gain new strength with which to continue their climb.*

*Knowledge was increased in their Sophomore year,
By the faithful help of their teachers dear.*

*James Monroe was president again;
Then Rudolph Walser their leader became.
They all followed their chosen guides.
And success and happiness loomed on all sides.*

*At the Senior Carnival they won the cup again,
First time 'twas ever taken from the Freshmen.
In all athletics they come out with honor,
Waving o'er all their colorful banner.*

*After another welcomed rest,
The class returned with new vigor and zest,
For then they were Juniors and felt quite content
That their first two years were so well spent.*

*They were very near the end of the trail,
So they all worked hard, lest they should fail.
Bernard Williams was president again;
Then James Monroe their leader became.*

*Those with scholarship and character were selected,
And to the National Honor Society were elected.
The Senior Reception was quite an illustrious event,
And for the Seniors afforded real entertainment.*

*Then they were Seniors very dignified,
But some were a bit too satisfied,
For though they were superior there;
They'll be starting anew in the coming year.*

*And then there were poets, artists, and musicians
Who won much fame, and honored positions.
And several students who proved quite worthy,
Were elected to the National Honor Society.*

*They were Arabians on Carnival Night,
And afforded such a picturesque sight,
That the judges said they were the best,
And so won the cup over all the rest.*

*Little Dan Cupid had an archery spree,
And emerged with laurels of victory,
Which were displayed at the Senior Reception in May,
When the Juniors entertained them in a royal way.*

*Amid the blare of trumpet and beat of drum,
They arrived at their goal—graduation.*

*While in Boyden they made many friends,
Now they must leave them; their journey ends.
They have come to a point in this human strife,
Where various trails lead into the wilderness of life;
But sturdy and staunch they will enter there,
With a will to do and a soul to dare.*

*They've worked and they've played for many a year,
And now in their hearts there's a memory dear.
With a smile and a tear, a laugh and sigh,
They think of the days spent in Boyden High.*

MARY STIREWALT, Historian.

STATISTICS OF THE CLASS OF 1932

In April I was elected to the most honorable office of statistician. How I was to get the facts from the class of '32, who had lived through this period of depression, was a puzzle to me.

In an effort to find a way in which I could gather the statistics, I traveled through the lands to the farthest corners of the earth and saw some of the greatest statisticians of this day. They explained to me their methods of keeping statistics, but they were too complicated for me to remember. Also, they seemed to think that the period of depression had put all the facts out of the minds of the people. You remember the red cross drive, also the work of the salvation army, not mentioning a thing of the cry for a "bonus" by the war veterans. Therefore, even after seeing all these men, I was not able to decide on a method of collecting these facts.

Consequently, in May, I was back in the class searching among the students who had been robbed of every cent by the depression. Considering all facts, tho, I think they have taken the depression in a fine way. All of you remember the drive that was put on in the school by the salvation army, when Ivey Brown was persuaded to give a pair of worn out shoes to the needy of the city.

Combining the information given me by the statisticians and my class mates with hours and hours of stupendous labor of my own, I have been able to get the following facts.

The average height of this group is about 5 feet 5½ inches, the average weight about 125½ lbs. Every one remembers well the Unemployment Issue and the great march to Washington. when several members of our group were not allowed to march because of the size of their shoes.

It took most of them four years to go through this great institution of learning; others who came more than the required time did so to keep from being listed in the unemployed group.

90% of them expect to go to college; of this per cent, 35% are going for the fraternities, 40% for athletics and the other 15% to obtain more knowledge. Those who are not going seem to be thinking of other phases of life such as: nursing, business, marrying etc., and some seem to think they know enough as it is.

The class is about evenly balanced with blonds and brunettes, with two exceptions: we have among us two strawberry blondes, just about dark red. The eyes range from azure blue to jet black.

In this class many political factions are represented: 50% are Republicans; 10% are Socialists; 20% Democrats, and the other 20% don't know what a political party is; they think it is a "free for all" boxing match.

On an average their age is 17 years, that is, if they told the truth. But we all know that girls never get over sixteen any more.

Out of the 139, 12 picked history as their favorite subject and 7 English; 1 journalism, those not voting were 119.

As their favorite teachers they picked Miss Lucia B. Able and Miss Margaret Jackson who have so faithfully guided them through their critical year of high school.

Turning to the romantic side of this group, we find that during the year 3621 love letters written per student; of course, we are leaving out the conversations. 50% are in love; the other 50% seem to think it is a "mistake between two fools." Those who know what love is average about  $3\frac{1}{2}$  dates a week.

This being a year of depression I was very inquisitive and asked.

"What would you do if you owned the school?"

Reduce teachers salaries, 40%; abolish classes, 30%; equip library with more papers and magazines, 20%.

Then expecting to get some very sensible answers, I asked, "What are some of the greatest benefits derived from the school?"

The answers were: fresh air, 20%; education, 10%; assembly programs, 20%; getting a good place in the cafeteria line 50%.

The favorite games of the true and faithful seniors are: baseball, tennis, football, and spin the bottle.

The above facts and figures were gathered from the class of 1932, and are supposed to be correct to the best of my knowledge. Therefore, I, the statistician of this peace loving, law-abiding body will affix my signature to this great document which, I hope, may be of great value, to the wonderful students of the class of 1932.

CRESS EDWIN GOODNIGHT,
Statistician.

SENIOR CLASS PROPHECY

Ten years after having graduated from Boyden High School, knowing that most of my classmates would be interested in the planets and be working there, I decided to call on an astronomer. As the top of the Wallace Building had been turned into an observatory, I went there, only to find that Genoa Mills had become interested in the study of planets and stars. She told me that I would have to stay in the observatory in order to study the heavenly bodies at close range, and I sat down in a swivel chair under a hundred-foot telescope. Genoa turned a wheel, and the telescope was focused on Mars. I was surprised to see that the surface of this great planet had been developed in such a way that it looked like our land here on this earth.

As my gaze settled on the tall office buildings, my greatest desire was to look on the inside and see who among my old friends had chosen to be tied to a desk. I expressed my wish and Genoa merely turned another wheel; immediately I saw every office in the tallest building. I was very much surprised when I saw that M. C. Barnhardt and Robert Clawson, two very quiet boys as I remembered them, had become prominent attorneys. After this astonishing revelation I was prepared for almost anything, but again I was shocked to see that Cress Goodnight had given up baseball on this good old earth and had taken a supply of baseball material to Mars, in an effort to get the inhabitants interested in that sport. At the same time I discovered that Oliver Rufty, "Hot-Dog" Brittain, Carl Loflin, and Oren Baity were gaining the respect of the people as mentors of football, wrestling, track, basketball, and baseball. As my gaze turned to schools, I found that Ernest Kluttz had given up a career as physicist on earth in order to become instructor of physics and chemistry at the largest university in the strata, with Clement McPherson as his assistant. I also was greatly pleased when I found that Bob Woodson had become professor of French and Latin at the same school, while Kenneth Brown was professor of mathematics. Then my eyes came upon a newspaper office, with the shingle hanging out which told me that Dorothy Rufty, Josephine Murdoch, and Dorothy Smith had established the first newspaper on Mars, and this paper, "The Mars Times", already had a circulation of nearly five thousand.

Thinking that I had seen enough of Mars, I told Genoa that I would like to see some other heavenly body, so she slowly turned a large wheel until she said that she now had Jupiter in focus. I resumed my seat, and repeated what I had done while looking at Mars. When I came to a theater, I decided to have a peep inside to see what was going on, my eyes at once sighted a group called the "Cut-Uppers". I continued to look, and presently I looked so intently that I recognized the members of this band of dancers. The group was headed by Evelyn Lee while the other members were Azilee Cauble, Dorothy Kirk, Undine Mahaley, Mary McEnery, Constance McKay, and Catherine Isenhour. Still wandering my gaze fell upon a sign which told me of a clothing establishment, owned by Virgil Trexler, assisted by Sam Peacock and Charles Curd. These old acquaintances of mine had established themselves as authorities on men's clothes. As I had seen schools on Mars, I thought it wise to look for some on Jupiter, so I searched until my eyes fell upon a big red school. On the inside I found Alma Shives, Gladys Ennis, Edna Eagle, Gladys Drye, Marie Leonard, Zola Johnson, and Muriel Mahaley who were responsible for the building which I now saw. Among the teachers I recognized Marion Purcell, Ophelia Bost, Catherine Holbrooks, Mary Watson, Lula Wyatt, and Ellese Bost. The staff of coaches included Blanche Wyatt, Hazel Whirlow, Wilhelmina Manning, Frances Kimball, Mildred Bridges, Annie Mae Baker, Lala Holshouser, Kathleen Koon, Kathleen Roberts, and Olene Heilig. To my surprise I found that the attendance of this school was well over a hundred thousand. Thinking I had lingered long enough in the urban part of this planet, I looked upon the outskirts of it. Going still further I came to a roadside inn, and on the inside I found Paul Bell, Nathan Lyerly, and their string band, which had been chosen by the National String Band Association as the one to take earthly music up into the heavens. Before long I came to another city, and by looking in the dance hall of a large hotel I found Jack Hice, Jack Garrison, and their orchestra, including Francis McDaniel, Adrian Trexler, Robert West, and Lawrence McKinney. Looking at the people on the floor, I saw Enid Lyerly, Mena Cook, Inez Goodman, and Elizabeth Trollinger dancing with some natives, (Elizabeth was talking more than she was dancing).

Genoa then suggested that I look at Mercury for a while, so she readjusted the telescope, and that planet looked so close to me that I could see the buildings as though I were standing beside them. As I usually looked in the largest building first, I peered inside a twenty-five story one. In one office sat John Fox, with the dignified look of a successful doctor, while across the hall was a strong competitor, John Zimmerman. Russell Felts had opened a studio for Pathe Pictures, Incorporated, with offices in the same building; and Henry Davis, Fred Gobble, Beverly Keever, Grady Lentz, Carl Walton, Tom Warner, and Joe Singleton had become the Pathe stars, the latter playing the role of villian, claiming that he was the successor of Bull Montana himself. Among the feminine stars were Neely McCubbins, Evelyn Misenheimer, Martha Skinner, Edith Neel, and Elizabeth McKinney. The latter, with Jim Cuthrell as partner, had made a great name as the greatest dancer in the solar system. In this same office building Billy Archer, Henry Tysinger, Jack Busby, Raymond Kirk, and Robert Wilson were in a stiff race for the honor of being Mercury's greatest electrical engineer. On the same floor Gladys Rainey had an office for her interior decorating company, with Lucy Walton, Jaunita Yarborough, and Henrietta Young as assistants. I also saw a sign which said "Brown Motor Company", and as this name was very familiar, I decided to look into the office. Here I found Ivey Brown, the very picture of a tired business man, who had been sent as the representative of the Ford Motor Company of Detroit, Michigan, to demonstrate the new Ford sixteen and also the airplanes. Thinking that I had seen enough of the office building, I had the telescope moved to such a position that I could see other things. The first glance revealed Earl Fisher coming out of a church; from the look on his face I decided that he had become the pastor. The next thing was a public golf course, which Pitts Hudson and Jim Monroe had built (they had obtained the services of Reuben Fisher and Charles Safrit as caddies). They had also opened a golfer's equipment store with Clement Brown in charge. Letting my eyes rove on down the street, I saw a newspaper office, with Garnelle Raney, Theresa Cooke, and Wilda Mae Yingling as sole owners. On their staff of writers were Cordie Albright, Annie Laurie Atwell, Pauline Mesimore, Mary Stilwell, Catherine Barringer, Phyllis Gantt, Beatrice Swan, Arlene Garret, Ruby Hall, Mary Stirewalt, Wilma Hopkins, Mary E. Jones, and Ruby Morgan; while David Hoffman, Alice Pinkston, Dorothy Plyler, Margaret Poole, Helen Ramsey, and Alice Winecoff submitted poems of American type to this journal. Leon Winecoff had successfully landed the job of delivering the papers, and although he had to walk nearly ten miles a day on his route, he seemed to be very well satisfied. Suddenly a flying object obstructed my view of the planet, and when I asked what it was, Genoa said that it was merely Ralph and Kenneth Wagoner in their interplanar rocket plane, which Kenneth had designed and Ralph piloted between the earth and the heavenly bodies surrounding it. After the plane had disappeared I saw a drug store—the first I had seen on my examination of the planets. Looking on the inside I saw Charles Leonard, the owner, and his soda jerkers, John Swindell and Jack Miller. As every drug store must have several "cowboys", it seemed that Vernon Mask and Carl Massey were performing this part to perfection.

Just then a dark shadow passed between the earth and Mercury, and upon inquiry I found that it was getting dark. I was very sorry not to see more, but I was sure that I had seen all of my classmates, and even what they were doing. I thanked Genoa for the kind use of her telescope, and hurried on my way home, thankful that I had seen them once since our graduation.

BERNARD WILLIAMS, Prophet.

LAST WILL AND TESTAMENT OF SENIOR CLASS

BOYDEN HIGH SCHOOL, SALISBURY, N. C.

COUNTY OF ROWAN

HARK: It is time for quietness. When it comes to pass that in the course of human events and time, a dignified unit realizes its duty to make its LAST WILL AND TESTAMENT all heads should be bowed in gravest reverence.

We, the Senior Class of Boyden High School, realizing the close proximity of the end of our high school journey, do hereby desire to close all matters, that are of any consequence, before the remainder of the journey overtakes us and robs us of soundness of mind.

Being, at present, of sound mind and stately stature, we herewith express our desires for the continuation of the most sacred and holy virtues.

We hereby wish to express our greatest appreciation to the entire faculty of Boyden High School for the many courtesies and considerations that they have extended to us during the course of our high school career. We assure them that neither they nor any of their kindness and thoughtfulness shall ever pass from the realm of our memories. We sincerely forgive them any trials, tribulations, or penalties that they may have severely inflicted upon us.

We hereby wish to dispose of all our attainments rightly. If they are worthwhile, we wish to leave them within the school but, if they are unworthy, we wish to carry them away with us.

Be it herewith resolved that we, the Senior Class of Boyden High School, do hereby will and bequeath:

First:

The dearest of our thoughts to our parents.

Second:

To the janitors we leave no paper or trash on the floor or grounds or in any other conspicuous place—No, not much!

Third:

To the world at large—Senior Classes may come and Senior Classes may go but there will never be another Senior Class such as this one.

Having made the proper disposition of our rights as a group, be it further resolved that hereby the following individuals do will and bequeath:

First:

John Fox and Edith Neel leave their dignity to Frank Shields and Dot Jones.

Second:

Theresa Cooke, being one of the few who possesses the gift of beauty and charm, leaves her aforesaid characteristics to Sarah Peeler.

Third:

James Monroe, the beloved President of the Student Body, leaves to the new President his ability to make everything a huge success. He has shown remarkable ability.

Fourth:

Garnelle Raney leaves her popularity to Josephine Kluttz with the hope that it may get her by in her work more so than it has done in the past.

Fifth:

Neely McCubbins, with voice of steel and wisdom of the saints, leaves to James Dorsett her ability as a debater suggesting that he win the Aycock Cup within the next two years.

Sixth:

Ivey Brown and Pitts Hudson, realizing that over a period of several years of excellent training they have acquired the talent of traveling in the halls noiselessly, leave this distinguished ability to Charles Clark, who is already well on his way toward perfection.

Seventh:

The art of pleasing the ladies, which is possessed only by Beverly Keever, the handsomest boy of the august Senior Class, could only rightly be left to Maynard Newman.

Eighth:

The LON CHANEY of the Senior Class, Jack Garrison, desires to leave the art of transforming his face into a Cactus Plant to his brother, Bobby Garrison, who in turn is requested to leave it to his brother, Harold Garrison, with the hope that it may forever be perpetuated.

Ninth:

Margaret Poole leaves her charming and pleasing personality to Dot Hedrick.

Tenth:

Martha Skinner, dancer and vamp of the boys, leaves her ability to Jane Davis. A course of private instruction may be had upon the filing of an application.

Eleventh:

Jack Busby, the "NUTS" of the Senior Class, bestows all his wit upon anyone who has a hammer and is willing to crack outlandish remarks as he does.

Twelfth:

Mary Stirewalt, Boyden High School's famous orator, leaves her ability to bring to the world, in a pleasing way, the facts as they exist, to Carolyn George. Miss George has been begging for it for the last six months.

Thirteenth:

Wilda Mae Yingling, the great pianist, leaves to Margarite Morrison her art, if she can look into space as Wilda Mae does.

Fourteenth:

Henry Davis, President of the Davis Fresh Air Free Taxicab Co., leaves to Leon Bradshaw his executive ability.

Fifteenth:

John Zimmerman and Bob Woodson willingly give to the Ramsey twins, John and Alton, their good foundation. (In this case two feet make a yard.)

Sixteenth:

Oren Baity and John Swindell pass their speculating ability to Max Busby with the hope that, unlike them, he will be able to pay his losses.

Seventeenth:

Carl Walton dedicates his unblemished art of crooning to BIG BING BENNETT.

Eighteenth:

Bernard Williams freely gives his large manly statute to Tom Crawford.

Nineteenth:

Elizabeth McKinney and Jimmy Cuthrell give their art of Tap Dancing to Nell Dedmon and Sarah Rose West.

Twentieth:

Red Tysinger leaves his flaming red hair to any one who can control what is under it as well as he does.

Twenty-first:

Ruby Hall leaves her negro dialect to Slu-Foot Parker.

Twenty-second:

Charles Edward Leonard leaves his ability to stay out of school to anyone who can get by with it.

Twenty-third:

Marion Purcell, Carl Massey, Alvin Peninger, Lauria Harrison, Pauline Mesimer, Ruby Morgan, Arthur Brantley, and Alice Winecoff will their continued silence to anyone who dares break it.

Twenty-fourth:

Grady Lentz gives his "Tom walking" appearance to the noble and mighty Ed Miller.

Twenty-fifth:

Frances Kimball, Annie Mae Baker, Lala Holshouser, Kat. Koone, Kathleen Roberts, Nadyne Holshouser, Audalee Lancaster, Wilhelmina Manning, Margaret Kesler, Ruth Canup, and Olene Heilig wish to leave their great athletic prowess to the following Juniors—with the hope that some day they will make the Greek gods ashamed of themselves as athletes: Jerry Fisher, Lena Winecoff, Alice Goore, Ruth Harmon, Nell Choate, Evelyn Griffith, Frances Foil, Helen Odell, and Ella Frances Hubbard. (Perhaps they will be able to formulate a football team someday).

WE hereby affix our signatures on this the third day of June, 1932, and appoint J. C. Jones as sole executor of this Last WILL AND TESTAMENT OF THE SENIOR CLASS.

Signed: Earl Hugo Fisher

Witnesses:

Jack Hutchins Knox

William Bouknight Kesler

Gordon Ashby Kirkland

Margaret Lavenia Jackson

Cora Mabel Lippard

Lucia Bee Able

J. W. Byers

OUR HOUSES

We all are building houses of our own,
And in the days that are to be,
Some will be of wood and some of stone,
And some will be incomplete.
We are the architects—carpenters, too.
For material we should select the best,
Since the greatest task we have to do
Is to build our houses of success.

Some have selected mansions as their goal
And will work with this as their guide—
Never stopping until they behold,
The task completed—their joy and pride.
And those less ambitious will see ahead
Comfortable homes—not richly adorned.
All have ideals by which they are led,
To build houses that are not to be scorned.

But some will fail to draw their plans,
To guide them along the way;
They will wander lonely from sea to land,
Some day to regret—too late.
The future can be told by time alone,
And time can tell both of failure and success,
(Even though foundations on which to build
Were laid together at B. H. S.)

Then when our houses stand stately and high,
Warm with the flow of success of life,
They will be as a symbol of work and pride,
A fight to overcome in life's struggle and strife.
And memories weaving each thread of time,
Will ever take us back to thee, B. H. S.—
To live again a life become sublime,
In the beautiful land of memory.

JUNIOR CLASS

HISTORY OF CLASS OF '33

ANCIENT

In the beginning we were 200 strong, rushing here and there, going to the wrong classrooms, running against that dreaded three-minute bell, and finally entering the class late to meet a curt, "Report at three thirty-one". Would we ever learn our way around in this maze of endless corridors when all doors and stairs looked just alike? We tried hard, but there was always that fear of being waylaid by a curt, "Who's running the nursery?" or "Is your big sister keeping you for the day?" However, we finally got down to work on Civics, ignoring the sophs and others who tried to frighten and embarrass us.

The most outstanding event of the early writer was the English theme written by our most promising author (name was suppressed by request.) It read as follows:

"The mewl is a more hardier bird than a goose or rooster. He has his wings on the back of his head. He has two feet to walk on and two to hand out back-handers with. The mewl is sometimes backward about going forward."

Soon spring came, and we wiped out the last vestige of clinging childhood in one last good romp-winning "field-day". The Blue and White had survived two semesters! We would soon be Sophomores!

MEDIEVAL

Someone, probably a fool himself, has said that Sophomores are wise fools. The class of 1933 was a living contradiction to that assertion. Caesar was attacked with all the vigor we could master, and of course we came out the victors, though the old Roman handed us qualms galore. Some people have said that Pythagoras was insane. We disagree with them, but we do think that when he found out that  $h^2 = a^2 + b^2$ , he should have had some consideration for the Sophomore class of '33, upon whom he was imposing such a burden.

The Seniors and Juniors began scratching their heads when they were forced to bend their stiff necks and look down on the Sophomores. What they saw was this: a rising Junior class due to excel all; the prettiest group of girls and the handsomest aggregation of boys since 1298; an able-bodied man in more ways than one, Burns Beaver, at the head of this mighty class; and to top it all, Margerite Morrison, Frances Garrett, and Burns Beaver sailing with flying colors into the domain of Boyden High respect by winning for the Sophomores the inter-class debate.

MODERN

Looking back over the past, we must realize that we are the outcome of that memorable hoard of self-conscious Freshmen who first graced the threshold of this wonderful institution of learning on September 7, 1929. We have now lived through two years of hardships (?) and have arrived at that lazy, listless period known as the Junior year.

Not all of us are lazy, however, as evidenced by the fact that Frances Garrett, Caroline Lauchman, Sarah Peeler, Carolyn George, and Margaret Thomason were elected to the National Honor Society. To further our proof that we have promising debaters, Carolyn George and Russell Kerr, both of '33 though never having debated before, composed the affirmative triangular debating team.

Now, June 7 approaches the third time. The Blue and White has lived three years—WE are rising seniors!

FIRST YEAR

As it happened, on the seventh day of September of the year one thousand nine hundred and thirty, down the dark, dusky, mystic corridors of Time (or maybe it was Fulton street) trooped a group of beginners to that great institution of learning, Boyden High school. Trooped—no, fled, for pursuing them, and flourishing planks ornamented with holes or nails, came Sophomores, dreaded enemies of the sturdy Freshmen. Woe to the one who was unwary, for then he felt the might and power of his superiors.

However, this period of fear passed after about a week, and these young people settled down to real study. The results were evident, a few weeks later, when the first reports were issued; the Freshmen had a large share of the E's. They were willing to work, these youngsters; seldom was a parent-teacher meeting attendance award given to any other than a Freshman home-room. All fall they were busy building a reputation for themselves—and one they surely did gain. Soon after Christmas came the first catastrophe. They had their first experience with a real, honest-to-goodness examination. Horror of Horrors! However they defeated their enemies, seemingly and calmly pursued their free, buoyant way.

Many were the performances in which they participated: "Movie Star Night", "Senior Carnival", and "Field Day", in each of which they made a good showing. Dramatics and debating also claimed their interest. Far and wide spread the fame of some of the noted personages of the class: Bill Coughenour, good in football, Esther Hambley, elected May Queen for her beauty, Tom Crawford, famed for executive ability; and Sam Ryburn, the great cartoonist.

SECOND YEAR

School again! An older and wiser group appeared to be taught by Misses Thompson, Powell, and Wells. Now they were Sophomores, and in their eyes shown the light of vengeance. But they were lenient toward the Freshmen, (fairly so). Billy Burke exhibited his excellence as a pianist (he was a Sophomore then). The band and orchestra gained many new members. The glee clubs increased in size, and "Amateur Night", a great success, was presented. The Fair, reports, and Armistice Day followed in quick succession. The Sophomores were able to help the poor by way of the Salvation Army. These were busy days, for Christmas was just around the corner, but, before it, was "Jerry of Jericho Road" which boasted of quite a few Sophs. During the Christmas holidays, old Santa Claus was kind (maybe) in his visits. Then, the wrestling team came into prominence and the picture, "Dixie", was shown in honor of Lee and Jackson.

Then in quick succession came: Ground Hog's Day, St. Valentines Day, Easter, Radio Revue Night, and Senior Carnival (as freshmen the group had won the class stunt). Then Jim Dorsett and Mildred Williams, Salisbury's negative debating team, won, by unanimous decision, a victory over Lexington in the triangular debate.

FRESHMAN CLASS SONG

Tune: "Anchors Aweigh"

Here's to the Freshman Class,
 Long may it last.
 When you make the Sophomore year you'll
 Think of the past, oh freshmen,
 Purple and white, so dear,
 Long we will cheer,
 They will guide us through the years so,
 Rah, ra, ra, ra, ra, ra, ra, ra.

True we must ever be,
 To our faculty,
 When we reach our college years,
 We will have no fear, or worries.
 Then with our classmates,
 We must cooperate,
 So to make this freshman class the best,
 We've got to work until the last.

Written by

Frances Ellum
 Caroline Earnhardt

As Freshmen, the class have made a remarkable beginning. They have won every P. T-S. A. attendance prize—$2.50 in cash—except one; won the home room cup for amateur stunt night and also for Senior stunt night; sold the most Red Cross seals; sold the most tickets to "Something for Everyone"—sponsored by P. T-S. A.; and donated $11.00 to band uniforms.

The object of this society is to create an enthusiasm for scholarship, to stimulate a desire to render service, to promote worthy leadership, and to encourage the development of character in the pupils of Boyden High School.

MUSIC DEPARTMENT

A great deal of interest has been stimulated in music this year with the result that several fine organizations are functioning as important parts of school activities.

The Band has shown remarkable progress, starting with a meager few and developing into a forty piece organization. New uniforms, paid for by private contribution and a benefit program, together with much new material, aroused a spirit which carried the members along to the place where they played for football games, school programs, community affairs, open air concerts, and placed well in the Greensboro Contest.

The Orchestra, composed of thirty-five pieces, has done fine work, taking part in school programs and assisting in the operetta. A good showing was made in the state contest in competition with the best orchestras in the state.

A Boys' Glee Club was organized which, combined with the Girls' Glee Club, formed a mixed chorus of forty voices. This group produced the operetta "Jerry of Jericho Road" which won much acclaim. Gratifying results also came from the contest which claimed a good deal of the attention and work of this organization.

The Girls' Glee Club is an organization made up of fifty voices selected from the girls of the student body. This year the club has sung in a number of local concerts and also entered the state contest at Greensboro. Three of the smaller vocal ensemble groups are: the mixed octet, the girls' octet and the girls' trio. The personnel of these groups is: Mixed Octet—Christine Cook, Mary Louise Cress, Audalee Lancaster, Hazel Leonard, Tom Warner, Billy Burke, Paul Bell, and Reuben Holland; Girls' Octet—Christine Cook, Frances Morgan, Nancy Singleton, Mary Louise Cress, Margaret Poole, Hazel Leonard, Audalee Lancaster, and Reba Holland; Girls' Trio—Christine Cook, Margaret Poole, and Audalee Lancaster.

TRACK

Track work this year has shown remarkable improvement over that of the past few years. The experienced men making a very creditable showing included: Sapp, Harrison, Ramsey, Miller, Nussman, Webb, Gardner, McKinney, and Woodson. The new recruits were: White, Wortham, Rufty, Trexler, Graham, Scarlett, Childers, Coughenour, Kincaid, and Lemly.

The relay team composed of Graham, Harrison, Smith and Sapp with Webb and Kincaid as alternates furnished excellent competition for the opponent teams. Outstanding work in the various events was done by Graham, Scarlett, Sapp, Rufty, and Harrison. As only three members of the squad will be lost by graduation, the hope is for a much better team next year.

In the meets of the year, the locals won the following places: Salisbury—6½; Winston-Salem—5½; Salisbury decisive victory over China Grove; Western Conference—Salisbury fourth; State Meet—Salisbury fourth; Triangular—Salisbury second; Davidson Freshmen—Salisbury defeated; Civitan—Salisbury fourth. During this meet Rufty won the 120 yd. high hurdle and established a new Civitan record of 16 4-5.

BOYS' PHYSICAL EDUCATION ACTIVITIES

In Boyden High School the freshmen and sophomores are required to be enrolled in the physical education classes—the purpose of this being to develop the boys both mentally and physically. At the same time the department strives to inculcate in each the habits of good sportmanship, play, rules of the games, and the fundamentals of the activities of the school.

In order to afford keen competition in various sports the classes are divided into teams. Tag-football, basketball, volley ball, baseball, track events, wrestling, apparatus work, and rules for football were the activities taught this year. The boys of the department were tested on the chinning of the bar, rope climbing, standing high jump, running high jump, standing broad jump, running broad jump, baseball throw for accuracy, basketball foul shot, deep knee bend, push up, and baseball throw for distance. Records were kept and the average for the school was computed.

INTRA-MURAL PROGRAM

This year, during the fall, a program of tag-football—which employs all the rules of football but does not have the rough tactics—was run off between the home rooms. After football was over intra-class games of tag-football were played.

During the basketball season a tournament was held in which twenty-six teams entered. Four games were played each afternoon that the gymnasium was available for boys. The officials for the games were boys of the varsity basketball teams and assistants of the physical education classes. Approximately two hundred boys participated in the tournament.

Field day, which is a yearly event, is one of the biggest and best presented programs of the high school. Each boy is permitted to enter two events—competition being between the classes. A cup is given by the Civitan Club to the class making the highest score; this was won last year by the present junior boys. (When the annual went to press, plans for this event were not thoroughly completed, but the expectations were that it would be bigger and better than ever.)

WRESTLING

This year's wrestling team was composed mostly of "green horns" with only one experienced man; however, under the direction of D. L. Moore, a team was built around the one letter man, Earl Fisher. At the close of the season the following boys had won places and fought well even against veteran teams: Ed. Beaver, Ed. Hart, Delbert Peeler, Harold Webb—Capt., James Aldridge, Clyde Rice, John Ennis, and Stanton Scarlett. Letters were awarded Hart, Webb, and Fisher for their excellent work.

The team met Davidson Freshmen (1), Greensboro (2), High Point (2), Barium Springs (2), making a total of seven games.

BASEBALL

With the idea of trying to encourage more student participation, the athletic authorities of B. H. S. decided to have intra-squad rather than intra-school baseball this spring. This plan gave to the boy who thought he did not have quite enough ability to make the varsity team a chance to compete.

Every boy desiring to engage in this sport was placed on one of the three squads and played through a round robin schedule three times. Interest and enthusiasm ran high throughout the entire season—approximately a hundred boys participating.

Director: Oleta Billingsley.

Faculty Assts. Tennis—Eva Bullock and Lilly Cate. Hiking—Aliene Johnson. Baseball—Dorrie Lee Wells.

Student Assts. Nadyne Holshouser, Lala Holshouser, Jerry Fisher, Annie Mae Baker, Mildred Cornelison, Hazel Whirlow, Ruth Camp, Kathleen Roberts, Audalee Lancaster, Nell Choate, Frances Foil, and Dorman Morris.

ACTIVITY SEASON

FALL—soccer, volley ball, tennis, archery, tap, and hiking. WINTER—hockey, basket ball, tumbling, hiking, skating, and tap. SPRING—tennis, archery, track, baseball, hiking, skating, and tap.

The girls' physical education department has a two-fold aim: to have class instruction for sophomores and freshmen (as indicated on opposite page) and to have after-school activities for all with special encouragement to juniors and seniors. The foundation on which the department bases its program is as follows: to develop character through sportsmanship; to promote a social understanding among the girls; to stress physical and mental development needed by all.

Since personal hygienic instructions are essential in the well being of the individual, discussion groups were formed and a health room established for this worthwhile project.

Each year each room elects an activity leader with the purpose of increasing girls' participation. By the help of these leaders, competition in each sport has been of an intra-mural type—within the walls of the school. The change has been made "to promote competition that stresses enjoyment of sport and the development of good sportsmanship and character rather than those types that emphasize the making and breaking of records and winning of championship for the enjoyment of spectators or the athletic reputation or commercial advantages of institutions and organizations".

The point system has also been revised. The girls may now secure an activity letter when two hundred points have been obtained. For an additional hundred points a star is given. The system is as follows:

1 point—each hour of supervised activity in competition, the losing team gets one point, the winning team gets two points. 5 points—class team loser. 10 points—class team winner. 15 points—final class winners. 5 points—special program.

The following girls received letters last fall: Audalee Lancaster, Annie Mae Baker, Lala Holshouser, Nadyne Holshouser, and Kathleen Roberts.

Major programs given by the girls have been as follows:

Fall, "Review Night", a demonstration of physical education activities for the parents.

Winter, "Girls' Nights", intra-mural basketball games—also tumbling and tap arts.

Spring, "Rhythms Festival", each class displaying national folk dance. Assistants in a school-wide "Health Check-Up" Campaign.

Final: "Developing activity brings living happiness."

SCHOOL SONGS AND YELLS

SCHOOL SONG

Here's to dear old Salisbury, faithful and bold;
Here's to our banner, of black and gold;
Here's to men and women, who've come and gone,
Singing the victorious song of old B. H. S.

FOOTBALL SONG

When dear old Salisbury boys do fall in line,
We're going to win this game another time;
And for dear old B. H. S. we yell, we yell;
And for dear old Black and Gold we yell, we yell;
We're gonna fight, fight, fight for every yard;
We're gonna 'round the ends and hit 'em hard;
We're gonna leave old——on the sod, on the sod,
Rah! Rah! Rah!

Ray black! Rah gold!
Ray Rah Black gold!
Team! Team! Team!

Rip rip rip! Rap rap rap!
Salisbury! Salisbury!
(Clap, clap, clap)

Ray——(long whistle)——Boom
Salisbury, Salisbury, Salisbury

The Coca-Cola logo is rendered in its classic, flowing script typeface. The letters are dark and have a slight shadow effect, giving it a three-dimensional appearance. The 'C' and 'C' at the beginning and end of the word are particularly large and stylized, with the 'C' at the end having a long, sweeping tail that underlines the rest of the word.
